

Kick-start your own recovery

The signs are that we're finally on the way up. That being the case, are you in a position to grab the opportunity? Finding the time to get that project you've been thinking about all year up and running is difficult. OK, we understand. But if you don't start right now to plan for the new year, then it won't happen when you get back after those lazy, hazy summer days. Stop procrastinating! You need to be getting your plans in place NOW, otherwise you're going to be hit by the summer slumber and it will be February before you know it. You'll have missed the bus and your competitor will have the business.

In Focus

"In addition to the considerable commercial experience Dave brings to his role, he is also a gentleman of great personal integrity and wisdom and has at times been able to offer wise counsel beyond the limits of our commercial relationship. I would have no hesitation in recommending his services to any potential client." Click here to find out how you can form a relationship with someone who can help.

> Tip Of The Month

Every profession or business has its own language used and understood by each particular group. But outside it, troubles start. You'll have a communications failure if the words or expressions are gibberish. Jargon abounds. Get rid of it. Make your messages for your clients and customers plain and simple, easy to understand, and you'll cut through marketplace clutter.

How about you? Need a kick-start but just can't find the fuel? We'd love to hear your thoughts. Send us an email here.
